

Ethereal Productions

OUR TEAM

Ethereal Productions was founded in 2017 by husband and wife team, Erik and Laura Rowton.

ERIK ROWTON

Erik had a profound near-death experience as a child and has been searching for answers ever since. When he met his wife, Laura, it seemed like fate that they shared the same interest in the paranormal. More likely to appear behind the scenes than his other half, Erik enjoys the challenge of camerawork and post-production.

“To capture something on film is not just to record an image. It is to document and forever retain an imprint of the human soul.”

- Erik Rowton, Co-founder of Ethereal Productions

LAURA ROWTON

Since an early age, Laura had a fascination with the paranormal. Growing up in the United Kingdom, her childhood was filled with visits to medieval castles and crumbling, ancient ruins. Not only were these places filled with history but also - if the tales are to be believed - with ghosts. This meant that Laura's interest in the paranormal developed alongside her love of history. These twin passions culminated in the founding of The Paranormal Scholar®, and later Ethereal Productions.

“Amongst historians, there is a debate about the differences between “popular” history and “academic” history. I thought, “Why should there be a difference?” Why can't popular history be detailed and academically rigorous? Why can't academic history be presented in a popular manner? I believe that such a mentality shift, whilst urgently needed when discussing historical events, is all the more necessary when discussing anomalous phenomena.”
